Highlights and Distinctions

Reputation

Setnor is ranked in the top 20 music schools in the world by The Hollywood Reporter.

Advantages of a major university

Setnor students are part of a distinguished professional school with all the advantages of a major research university. You can add majors and minors and get the full college experience—a residential campus, Division I athletics, and exposure to a variety of academic disciplines and students.

Hands-on industry training

Music education students attend placements at local schools and complete a semester of student teaching.

Composers are often commissioned by current students to write works for their performances or films.

Music (B.A.) and Performance students give recitals, perform in master classes, and can even get involved in the local professional music scene.

Bandier, Music Industry, and Sound Recording Technology students are all expected to complete internships in their fields and can do so locally, nationally, or through SU Abroad in London.

Faster master's

The B.M. in music industry/M.B.A. is a five-year, double-degree program that gives you the management skills you need to thrive in the music industry. You can also opt for the five-year master's in music education program.

Study Abroad

Preparing for a music career on a global scale is crucial for today's musicians. The Setnor School offers its own study abroad programs that allow you to complete your coursework and remain on your graduation timeline.

As a B.A. and B.M. student, you can spend the spring semester of your sophomore year in Strasbourg, France, living with a French family and continuing your core music classes while you take lessons and perform in ensembles at the Conservatoire de Strasbourg.

Setnor also sponsors unique programs in Brazil, London, and in entertainment capitals of the world, New York City and Los Angeles.

"Setnor allows me to cultivate my love of music at the collegiate level and has provided me the opportunity to double major in political science. Thanks to Setnor, I know that my future is only as good as what I create, harmonize, and balance for a perfect blend."

— Jolanis Alexandre '18, Music (B.A.)

"At Setnor, I get all the classical training, minor in Jazz Studies, study abroad in London, and learn about the business, all while being a part of the greater Syracuse community."

— Samuel Axelrod '18, sophomore, Music Industry (B.M.)

"Studying abroad in Strasbourg, France, and working with faculty who are experts and instrumental in their fields today have allowed me to develop into a knowledgeable and confident teacher, musician, and person."

— Sang-mi Borneman '15, Music Education (B.M.)
(currently pursuing a master's in Music Education)
